

Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities for Trade and Industrial Education (370) Exam Overview and Transition FAQ

The updated Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities for Trade and Industrial Education (370) TExES certification exam will launch on September 6, 2021. Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) regarding the exam launch and candidate registration, exam transition and program requirements, and candidate preparation resources can be found below.

Exam Launch and Candidate Registration

When does the PPR for T&I \(370\) exam launch?

The 370 exam is scheduled to launch September 6, 2021, with a first score reporting date of October 1, 2021.

When can candidates begin registering for this exam?

For candidates that already have approval to take the exam, the PPR for T&I (370) registration will auto populate. Candidates can begin registering for this redesigned exam on July 27, 2021.

When is the first score reporting for the PPR for T&I \(370\) exam?

The first score reporting date will be October 1, 2021.

Who should take the PPR for T&I \(370\) exam?

Candidates seeking an intern, probationary and/or standard certification in Trade and Industrial Education will need to take the PPR for T&I (370) exam. Any candidate who enrolls in their program as of summer 2021 or has not completed the testing requirements prior to September 5, 2021 will take the 370 exam.

Will this exam have an introductory period, and if so, what can candidates expect?

The PPR for T&I (370) exam introductory period will be from September 6, 2021 through May 6, 2022. During the exam introductory period, an initial cut score will be established to support the transition into the new exam. Within the introductory period, candidates must meet a minimum threshold of items correct to pass the exam.

Exam Transition and Program Requirements

What is the deadline for candidates to take the current PPR for T&I (370) exam?

The last day for candidates to take the T&I (270) exam will be September 5, 2021. The last registration date will be September 3, 2021 with score reporting through September 10, 2021.

How long may candidates use a passing score on the current PPR for T&I (270) exam for issuance of the PPR for T&I (370) certificate?

The last day that a certificate may be recommended by the EPP using the T&I (270) exam results is September 6, 2022, exactly one year from the launch of the PPR for T&I (370) exam. Candidates must communicate with their EPPs to determine all program requirements that must be completed prior to recommendation for certification.

Candidate Preparation Resources

What resources exist for candidates to prepare for the exam?

The TEA has produced, in partnership with Pearson, a publicly accessible preparation manual and an interactive practice test. The preparation manual is publicly available and includes:

- The examination framework
- Approaches to answering different question types
- Sample selected-response questions
- In-depth rationales for correct and incorrect responses
- A sample constructed response question
- Sample strong and weak constructed-responses and rationales
- A list of preparation resources

The interactive practice test provides candidates with the opportunity to engage with the exam experience.

When will the preparation manual for this exam be available for candidates to purchase?

The preparation manual for the redesigned PPR for T&I (370) is publicly available on the Texas Program Website. Click here for link to the preparation manual.

When will the interactive practice test be available for candidates to purchase?

Both the representative exam and the interactive practice test will be available for purchase on September 28, 2021. TEA and the testing vendor, Pearson, will provide communication as these materials become available to educator preparation programs and candidates.